

2024-2025 Academic Year
Mercy Health St. Elizabeth Youngstown Hospital
Family Medicine Residents

Jamie Bosze, MD

PGY 3 Chief Resident

Medical School: Indiana University School of Medicine

Personal interests: exercise, crochet, playing the clarinet. I'm also a big horror fan (books and movies)

Why SEYH? "My husband is from Canfield, which is what drew me to the area. I rotated here as a medical student and enjoyed it."

"Everyone has been very kind and welcoming."

Daisy Nunez, DO

PGY 3 Chief Resident

Medical School: Marian University College of Osteopathic Medicine

Personal interests: hiking and traveling whenever I get the opportunity. Other than that, my dog, Pancake, keeps me busy.

Why SEYH? "During my interview season St. Elizabeth Youngstown stood out to me because they have created a wonderful program that aims at making the transition from medical school to resident as seamless as possible. We have a full month of orientation, a faculty advisor, and our senior residents are very approachable/easy to get a hold of."

Alexander Athanase, MD

PGY 3

Medical School: University of Medicine and Health, St. Kitts

Personal interests: gardening, outdoors for hiking, beach, watersport activities, going to the movies

Why SEYH? “I wanted to go to a different region of the US mainland and experience a new learning environment.” “Community medicine component” “Emphasis on teamwork and patient care”
“I love that it’s very close to Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Gives me the change to explore these new cities.”

Phoebe Koh, MD

PGY 3

Medical School: First Faculty of Medicine, Charles University, Prague, Czechia

Personal interests: basketball, soccer, team sports, gardening

Why SEYH? “I gravitated to this program because of the diversity of the patient population and the residents, faculty, and staff.”
“The exposure, the education plan, and the support for the residents to achieve the best version of themselves.”
“I feel at home with the people I speak to from this program and hospital.”
“Dreams do come true.”

Sylvia Agaibi, MD

PGY 2

Medical School: American University of Antigua, College of Medicine

Personal interests: Spending time with my family and friends, hiking with my dog, painting, and traveling

Why SEYH? “The people.”

“The program and what it stands for aligns with the values I hold & wanted to be in a program that I could be completely myself in.”

“It’s a very positive and uplifting environment to be in on a daily basis”

“No traffic. No construction. Everything I need is in 15-20 minutes away.”

Margaret Ekwere, MD

PGY 2

Medical School: Windsor University School of Medicine

Personal interests: I love music, reading fictional novels, and watching action movies

Why SEYH? “Top-notch training experience”

“Highly supportive faculty and residents”

“The residents seem truly happy and content to be a part of the program. They all stated how they truly felt like part of a family at SEYH. The faculty were kind and well-rounded.”

Keshia Enaw Ebob-Tabé, MD

PGY 2

Medical School: All Saints University School of Medicine, Roseau
Dominica

Personal interests: Outdoor nature hiking, biking, cooking, music, dancing, singing, traveling, and learning new languages and cuisines!

Why SEYH? “Amazing faculty and senior residents, who are proficient and love to teach.” “Felt like home...environment was conducive to learning, growth & wellbeing.”

“Our curriculum gives me so much confidence that I will graduate as a proficient primary care provider.”

Christine Ngara, MD

PGY 2

Medical School: St. George’s University, Grenada

Personal interests: traveling, reading, dancing and braiding hair

Why SEYH? “How diverse the program is.”

“Separate family medicine orientation block...before you officially start.”

“The fellow residents. Everyone is very supportive of one another and spends time with each other outside of just being colleagues.”

Lucile Chambily, MD

PGY 1

Medical School: Poznan University of Medical Sciences

Personal interests: traveling, discovering new places, spending time with friends, baking, taking care of my plants

Why SEYH? “During the interview, both faculty and residents were incredibly supportive and kind, creating an environment ideal for professional growth and development as a Family Medicine doctor.”
“Opportunity to obtain additional teaching in obesity medicine”
“Supportive environment, comprehensive training, diverse clinical experiences with a wide spectrum of patient cases & procedures, community engagement, and proximity to major cities.”

Onyinyechukwu Ezegwui, MD

PGY 1

Medical School: Windsor University School of Medicine

Personal interests: listening to music, watching movies, playing the piano and the guitar

Why SEYH? “I chose this program because of the culture. All the staff were happy to be working at St. Elizabeth. I love the opportunity it provides for community service at the grassroots levels, the high-quality training the program offers residents and the program’s commitment to excellence.”

Olena Senyk, MD

PGY 1

Medical School: Poznan University of Medical Sciences

Personal interests: different types of arts and crafts; painting, embroidery, drawing. I love reading and exploring new places, especially cafes and parks.

Why SEYH? “When I was interviewing, I felt like the people here were absolutely amazing. They seemed to genuinely like the program and were open and genuine. I felt that I would truly belong here.”
“The people! Everyone is welcoming and kind. The residents, faculty, and staff are always available and open to help with anything you need.”

Aishwarya Somani, MD

PGY 1

Medical School: St. Martinus University Faculty of Medicine

Personal interests: playing squash, badminton and pranks on people. I also enjoy spicy food and board games.

Why SEYH? “Diversity is present in every aspect: the people, the work, the complexities of the patients seen. The program prepares you for anything and everything, offering great flexibility in streamlining and focusing on both your professional and personal goals.”
“The transition from medical school to intern year is intense, the support from faculty & fellow residents has made it smooth & manageable.”
